MORRIS HARVEY COLLEGE

1948

To Wehrle B. Geary, who has done much to make the vision of a great Morris Harvey come true, this book is respectfully dedicated.

1888

THE OLD ADMINISTRATION BUILDING is typical of the architecture at the original site of Morris Harvey at Barboursville. Morris Harvey began in 1888 as Barboursville seminary. The Southern Methodists of West Virginia took over support of the school in 1889 and the name was changed to Barboursville college.

1935

THE KANAWHA COUNTY LIBRARY BUILDING was literally a honeycomb of education when Morris Harvey was located there from 1935 until 1947. In addition, space in various schools and buildings through downtown Charleston was used for classrooms. Kanawha College combined with Morris Harvey College in 1939 after Morris Harvey moved from Barboursville to Charleston.

1948

TEMPORARY BUILDINGS released from war-time service and erected on the 22-acre South Ruffner site of the future Morris Harvey made it possible for the school to move for probably the last time. Around these wooden structures the permanent buildings of Morris Harvey will rise.

19 —

THE FUTURE OF MORRIS HARVEY rests in this architect's sketch of the planned college buildings. Now a community supported institution with the withdrawal of formal Methodist support in 1940, Morris Harvey has assets of more than $2,000,000. Located on the present campus and facing the beautiful West Virginia capitol building across the Kanawha river, the new facilities will bring Morris Harvey to the forefront as a leading Eastern educational institution.

MR. MORRIS HARVEY, a citizen of Fayetteville, turned his interest in education toward Barboursville college early in the century. Between 1900 and 1908 Mr. Harvey gave to the college approximately $100,000. In the will of his wife a large portion of the estate was added to the endowment. In consideration of this timely aid, the board of trustees in 1901 changed the name from Barboursville college to Morris Harvey college.

MOVING DAY was September 8, 1947, one day prior to registration of classes. The town turned out and watched college officials symbolically board LCI 1053, cross the river and establish a permanent beachhead on the southern bank of the Kanawha. At this ceremony a model of the new buildings was symbolically handed over to the college officials. Said President Rigglesman, "Although our buildings are temporary, our landing is permanent."

The Band

Embellishing MH'S appearance on the football field in last year and this year was a quick stepping, hard playing band.

And wearing the new majorette uniforms which Maxine Halstead, head majorette, designed are: Wanda Countz, Louise Shepherd, Maxine Halstead, Ann Cross and Mary K. Kelso. Imogene Givens, another majorette, is not shown in the group.

Membership of the band fluctuated around but during the year there was seen in band uniform the following: Robert Barnette, Claude Bettinger, Robert Brake, David Brawley, John Breed, William Calhoun, Don Cross, William Cox, Nick Ciccarello, Joseph Ervin, Jack Gentry, Creed Halbert, William Hill, James Knapp, Richard Masters, Carl Moore, John Pierson, Kenneth Pulliam, Charles Roberts, Herbert Vaughan, Robert Greenlee, Jerry Gwinn, John Norvell, Joseph Ballengee, Robert Page, Walton Moore, Gene Metz, Ed Clark, Jack Gilbert, James Jarvis, George Scherer and Guy Leonard.

RAH!!

And now for the Morris Harvey Locomotive—not the C. & O. locomotive that we hear in classtime—but the team cheers at the games. In this Harveyan is the greatest collection of scores of Morris Harvey athletics yet compiled. However, it is by no means complete. In the dim dark days almost beyond recall—the days of '03 up to even 1922—often memory alone was the source for the statistics.

—and to interpolate here, if there are any corrections, additions or subtractions that any reader can make, do make it and tell the Morris Harvey Athletic office about it, we want a complete record if possible—

From Deke Houlgate's football history comes many of the early scores from 1906 to 1914. From letters from the first coach, Walter O. Ropp, comes the history of the first game between Shelton College at St. Albans and Morris Harvey. From Dr. W. H. Walker's memory comes the scores from 1917 to 1921 and from 1922 hence from issues of the Morris Harvey Comet which started publication that year.

IT SEEMS LIKE . . .

The people of Barboursville didn't like Morris Harvey's first coach, Walter O. Ropp—they didn't like the idea of his introducing that "barbarous game" into the school.

However in 1905 Ropp says—but some reports say '03 or '04—he came to Morris Harvey as a graduate of West Virginia University.

At the university he had played football. He was asked to start a team and did and his first year Morris Harvey played two games with Shelton College in St. Albans.

Football was rough in those days. He had exhorted the boys to "Get in there and kill 'em" . . . and one boy, "Fatty" Harold the center, actually had a .44 revolver cached in his trousers to use literally. It fortunately fell out in practice session before the game and Ropp then explained "kill 'em" is a figurative phrase. Walter Ropp was a playing coach. He and Kemper Shelton were in fact the only men who had played football. They handled the ball in the first game until it was on the opponent's five yard line, then gave it to another player whom they hoisted over the line for Morris Harvey's first touchdown.

Shelton College was beaten 29 to 0 and then in a return game Morris Harvey won by a small margin.

The names of the first team members include "Fatty" Harold at center, the coach and Kemp Shelton of Huntington in the backfield, A. C. Herold and John Harold of Summersville, C. F. W. "Tot" Koontz of Grafton, Hermann Beckelheimer, Lundy Coffman of Barboursville, "Chuck" Barron of Charleston, Clyde Scott of Beckley on the line. Don Erhart of Beckley, as halfback, Dr. Reed McClung, now at the University of Southern California, was on the team. These names were recalled by Walter Ropp in a letter to Dr. W. H. Walker.

Walter Hallanan of Charleston, who recalls he played in '03 or '04 and probably on the first team recalled Kent McGuffin at an end, "Tot" Koontz, "Fatty" Harold, Don Ankrum of New Martinsville, and "Chick" Enslow from Huntington.

Carl Calvert, "Morgy" Gardner, E. M. "Brownie" Fulton, Charles Fulton, "Cotton" McCutcheon, Con Bolden, Jack Latterner, Dick Nebbinger, Harry F. Toothman, "Blondie" Taylor, Dr. Russel G. Frazier, Clarence Coon and Darrell Morris were players in the early pre-World War I days.

In the days when Knute Rockne played on the Notre Dame team Morris Harvey played the Irish in 1912 and scored what was considered a sensational up-set by holding the strong team to a score of 39-0.

From the Notre Dame "Scholastic" comes this quotation: "The surprise of the season was sprung on the Varsity last Saturday by the Morris Harvey eleven which upset all advance dope on the 'practice' game scheduled by holding Notre Dame to a score of 39. Light, speedy and filled with fighting born of the hope of conquest over the gold and blue the West Virginia eleven gave the varsity the stiffest fight encountered since the opening of the season.

"Gardner and Taylor in the backfield starred for Morris Harvey. At fullback the former gave an exhibition of open field running that opened the eyes of the rooters. On two occasions only Gu Dorais' certain tackles prevented the speedy Southern from scoring . . ."

After the first World War the nickname of the "Fighting Preachers" or "The Preachers" and sometimes "The Villagers" was tagged to the Morris Harvey teams by sports-writers. Inasmuch as few ministerial students were on the football squad the name seemed inappropriate and in 1929 the student body unanimously selected "Golden Eagles" for the MH sobriquet. The name was suggested in 1926 by Kester Epling, a student, who was awarded the $ prize posted for the best name.

Except for a short period at the beginning of Morris Harvey the history up to 1921 was that of a junior college that included both high school and college students. This accounts for the many high school games on the schedule then. Both the younger and older men played on the team then. In 1921 the college again became a senior college for the granting of degrees.

The All-Time football team of Morris Harvey college was selected for the period covering 1900 to 1940 to include:

The Catalogue of 1893 said:

"During April, May, June and September study hours begin at 7:30 a. m. . . .

"Company must not be entertained except on Friday evenings, and then not later than 10 o'clock. This rule forbids young ladies to walk the streets or take strolls or hang over the gates with the young gentlemen . . .

"Students who prove themselves worthy of the privilege are permitted to study in their own rooms. Others must study in the college chapel. Young ladies and young gentlemen will not be permitted to study together in the college chapel . . .

"No drama will be presented from the stage of this college . . .

"No kinship more distant than a brother will be recognized in granting special privileges to students . . .

"No young lady under 16 years of age will be permitted to receive attentions from a young gentleman without written permission from her parents." This rule was changed to read in 1896, "No young lady will be permitted to receive attentions from young gentlemen with whom the faculty is not personally acquainted unless she first obtain written permission from her parents and consent of the president of the college."

(Morris Harvey then had dormitories on its campus).

and in additional retrospect . . .

Physical education began under the authority of the faculty in 1904 when a cadet corps was organized. The young militarists appear at the various social functions proudly clad in their gray uniforms to receive the bewitching attentions guaranteed only by a soldier's dress. Uniforms became the rule for the young women the following year.

With agitation for intercollegiate sports the cadets were disbanded. The instructor in expression conducted classes in "gymnastics" for the women. "College games are encouraged," the catalogue said, "and when spring comes exercises are out of doors. We want to have enthusiastic tennis matches and basketball games . . .

"All Students taking part in athletic contests with other schools (1907) must have reached at least the freshman year, and must have been at least one year a student in the school making the required grades on examinations, and shall make up all lessons missed."

Football began in 1910 (this account says) when Kemper Shelton's name appeared with the faculty as physical director. During the same year the baseball team won the championship of southern West Virginia.

(The above is from The Charleston Gazette of April 11, 1926).

Comet Flashes Over Horizon

By HAROLD C. GADD

All of the rules of journalism were not broken by the two-to-thirty-five members of The Comet staff in the twenty-sixth year of the paper's publication, but enough of them were to keep it in the Ivy League.

Frankly, the staff started off the year with high ideals and great ambitions—managed to lose the ideals but the ambitions multiplied like rabbits.

ON TIME—HE SAYS

Surprisingly enough, seventeen issues were published—each on time. It matters not that the editor set the time and if he missed no one was the wiser.

Since the Harveyan format is discouragingly small for a layout of thirty-five news hounds, and, since the only time all of them were together was at the first and last and only staff meeting, we show representative pictures and list the names of the more avid.

STAFF LIST

To wit: Naomi Thabet, business manager; John Bryant and Robert Kiel, ad salesmen; Jean Hasty, circulation manager; and Raymond Peak, who audited the books.

Half-to-wits: Harold C. Gadd, ye editor; Virginia Bailey, ye bard; William "Falstaff MacBeatty" Beatty, ye columnist; Myron Solter, ye poet-editorialist; Charles Wray, ye sober mind; Russ and Ralph Lemon, ye sports scribes; and Betty Wooddell, ye events editor.

Lest you forget, the arty art and the better editorials were supplied by Joe Hoffmann, and Evelyn Harris nodded to editorial policy while Robert Dorsey kept the staff in the black.

And then there was that, here now, newspaper—The Comet!

BITTER . . .

Late than never at all. Besides, if you can't read you'll probably like this yearbook because it has pictures in it. In addition to that look at the genuine imitation leather binding. Harold Gadd, who on the opposite page is the editor of the Comet, was an outstanding figure in school. So much so that everyone thought he was also editor of the Harveyan. Such a mistake took everyone but the administration out of our hair and into his as the Harveyan became progressively a day late, a week late, a fortnight late, a month late and several months late. Also as we pay tribute to people we should mention Dave Harper who herded people in to have their pictures made. The biggest irritation to yearbook staffs is the fact that everyone is so coy about having his mug preserved for posterity and so indignant when his profile isn't included. Our remarks to people who aren't pictured is that it is their own procrastinating fault. So there. Also in spite of the high cost of shoe leather, Bill Sweet, Bill Peery, and Jack Wilcox pounded the pavements selling advertising and Nilo Olin turned out the art work for the Greek letters in the book. And besides that, Jack Wilcox became married to an extremely lovely young lady in the process of the yearbook getting out. No wonder it was late.
